

Dr. Christopher Gregory is a Principal Scientist for Imaging at Smiths Detection. He has thirty years of experience in pattern recognition, image analysis, image processing, and signal processing for medical, defense, homeland defense and academic applications. He has led DHS and TSA funded research efforts involving machine learning algorithms and mm wave people screening in the past, and is currently leading the x-ray diffraction effort at Smiths Detection.